The "B-1" gun division of the armament plant at Kragujevac was recently moved to Kasapovic, which lies 12 kilometers from Travnik and 8 kilometers from Nevic Polje (sic). Several buildings for housing workers have been constructed there. The new plant lies well hidden between mountains; it seems fairly safe against air attacks. The nearest railroad station is at Bila Bosna. From there a highway runs to Kasapovic, through Nevic Polje and Kamenolo (sic). The Kragujevac plant at present produces German type light machine guns, known as "Sarac"; Czech type heavy machine guns of 7.8 mm caliber, and aiming devices for artillery. It also produces small arms ammunition.
